TWENTY-FIFTH REPORT

OF THE

INSPECTOR

OF

REFORMATORY AND INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS IN IRELAND.

TO THE RT. HON. ARTHUR JAMES BALFOUR, P.C., M.P., &c., &c.,

CHIEF SECRETARY TO THE LORD LIEUTENANT OF IRELAND.

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR OF REFORMATORY AND INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS IN IRELAND,
DUBLIN CASTLE,
May, 1887.

SIR,

Since September last year, pending some permanent arrangement, I have filled the office of Inspector of Reformatory and Industrial Schools in Ireland, and the duty devolves upon me of submitting a Report for the year ended the 31st December, 1886.

The Statistics contained in the Annual Reports upon Reformatory and Industrial Schools refer to the period between the 1st of January and the 31st of December. In this Report I have not departed from that practice; but, in the general observations which I have the honour to submit, I have been guided by the experience acquired up to the date affixed to this document.

The late Sir John Lentaigne—whose name must ever remain honourably associated with the Irish Reformatory and Industrial Schools—in his Report for the year 1835, remarked upon the rapid development of these institutions during the period of his official connexion with the administration of the Acts. He drew attention to the circumstance that in October, 1869, there were 6 certified Industrial Schools, with a population of 77 inmates, and that on the 31st December, 1885, the schools had increased in number to 64, and contained 6,655 inmates.

For the last six years there has been a decline in the number of inmates of Reformatory Schools. The number of Industrial Schools continues steadily to augment, and there is a progressive increase in the number of their inmates. It is not improbable that children of tender age who are now sent to Industrial Schools, if they had been allowed to remain for a few years longer under the unfavourable conditions from which they have been rescued, would have found their way into Reformatories. The Industrial School system may thus, perhaps, deserve the credit of having arrested the progress of juvenile crime while in its least culpable beginnings. It is at all events certain that as Industrial Schools have increased, reformatory cases have diminished in number.

The extension of the Reformatory Schools Act to Ireland in 1858, and the passing of the Irish Industrial Schools Act in May, 1868, constituted the first step in a movement possessing a deep interest for the social reformer—a movement calculated, if properly directed, to confer important benefits upon the community at large. The intention of the Reformatory Schools Act was to save the juvenile offender from prolonged imprisonment and the evil effects of association with adult offenders and habitual criminals. It accordingly enacted that offenders under the age of 16 years, convicted of crimes punishable with penal servitude or imprisonment, should be imprisoned for not more than 14 days, followed by detention in a Reformatory School for a period of from two to five years. The aim of the Industrial Schools Acts appears to have been the rescue of the offender of more tender age and of young children from social surroundings pre-eminently calculated to train them in habits of vice. The Industrial Schools Acts provide that children under the age of 12 years, charged with an offence punishable by imprisonment, or children under the age of 14 years found begging, or wandering, or homeless, or found destitute being orphans, or having a surviving parent undergoing imprisonment, or frequenting the company of reputed thieves, or lodging with or frequenting the company of reputed prostitutes—may be summarily committed to an Industrial School until they attain the age of 16 years. The regulations in force in both classes of Schools provide that the inmates shall receive religious and moral training, secular education, and such industrial instruction as will qualify them, on the expiration of their sentence, to earn a livelihood by honest industry.

At the close of 1886 there were throughout Ireland 9 Reformatory Schools, with 936 inmates, and 66 Industrial Schools, containing 6,861 inmates. The number of juvenile offenders in Reformatories showed a decrease of 224 as compared with the close of 1880, and the number of children in Industrial Schools was 1,280 in excess of the year 1880.

During the year 1886, 203 young offenders were admitted into Reformatories, and 239 were discharged, including 5 deaths, making a total of 6,551 admissions and 5,522 discharges since the passing of the Act.

The corresponding numbers for Industrial Schools were:—Admissions during the year 1886, 1,525; discharges, including 79 deaths, 1,012. Admitted since the passing of the Acts, 19,837; discharged, 12,027.

The results reported respecting the discharges during the three years 1883-4-5 were, for Reformatories, 83·7 per cent. doing well; 8·3 per cent. re-convicted. For Industrial Schools, 93·4 per cent. doing well, and less than 1 per cent. convicted.

The cost of maintaining and training children in Irish Reformatory Schools amounted during 1886 to £23,838, towards which outlay Parliament contributed £14,968, and Local Authorities (Grand Juries and Municipal Bodies) contributed £6,994. The average cost per head in Reformatory Schools amounted, in 1886, to £22 16s. 0d.

The cost of maintaining and training children in Irish Industrial Schools in 1886 amounted to £161,117, and of this sum Parliament contributed £85,579, and Local Authorities £33,160. The average cost per head in Industrial Schools amounted in 1886 to £17 17s. 8d.

The contribution out of moneys voted by Parliament towards Reformatory Schools in Ireland is a fixed sum of 6s. per head per week. The Parliamentary contribution towards Industrial Schools is a fixed sum of 5s. per head per week.

The sums contributed by Local Authorities vary very widely in amount. Some Grand Juries decline to contribute, other Grand Juries restrict their contributions to a very limited number of children. It sometimes happens that public bodies will contribute one year and refuse to contribute the year following.

The Reformatory Schools are distributed as follows:—In the Province of Leinster there are 3 for boys, 2 of which are for Roman Catholics, at Philipstown (King's Co.), and Glencree (Co. Wicklow); 1 for Protestants, in Dublin. Two for girls—1 for Roman Catholics, 1 for Protestants, both in Dublin.

In Ulster there are 2 Reformatories, 1 for Protestant boys in Belfast, 1 for Roman Catholic girls in Monaghan.

In Munster there are 2 Reformatories, 1 for R. C. boys at Upton (Co. Cork), 1 for R. C. girls in Limerick.

There are no Reformatory Schools in Connaught.

While referring to Reformatory Schools it may not be out of place here to remark that juvenile offenders who have passed some years in Reformatories are afterwards occasionally charged with serious offences, and the evidence afforded by their subsequent crimes that these individuals have not been reformed has led to the expression of some doubt respecting the success of the Reformatory system. It is right, however, to bear in mind that a small number of young persons have been discharged from Reformatories from time to time as incorrigible, and a few have been transferred to lunatic asylums—so ill-defined are the boundaries of that mysterious borderland which separates insanity from crime, and so faintly traced is occasionally the line dividing responsibility from irresponsibility. It ought not to be forgotten that the much more numerous class of youthful offenders who appear to have been thoroughly reformed, and to have continued industrious and law-abiding citizens does not attract public notice. The Industrial Schools at present (May, 1887) certified amount in number to 67.

In the Province of Leinster there are 19, with a total certified limit of 2,573.

Ulster contains 10 schools, with a total certified limit of 1,054. Of these, 6 are grouped in and around Belfast, and include the "Gibraltar," the only Industrial Training Ship in Ireland. The Counties of Donegal and Londonderry contain no Industrial School. The school farthest north is situated at Strabane; south of Strabane the nearest school is at Monaghan.

Munster contains 25 schools, with a certified limit of 2,394.

Connaught contains 13 schools, with a certified limit of 1,171.

The above list includes 1 new Industrial School for Protestant girls, certified during the year 1887. It is situated in Belfast, and is specially intended for the reception of young girls exposed to the grave moral dangers referred to in the Industrial Schools Amendment Act of 1880.

A certificate has been promised to the Managers of the projected Fishing Industrial School at Baltimore, in the County of Cork. This undertaking marks a new departure in the working of the Industrial School system in Ireland. All competent authorities recognize the value of the Irish deep-sea fisheries, and deplore the undeveloped state of the industries connected with this important source of national wealth. It occurred to the founders of the Baltimore undertaking that the establishment of a Fishing School at Baltimore, in which boys should be trained in all the branches of industry connected with the fisheries, such as boat building and repairing, net making and mending, practical deep-sea fishing, and the curing of fish, would prepare the youth of our maritime counties for a most profitable industry, besides training them in practical seamanship. An Industrial School founded with these objects it is earnestly to be hoped will achieve the success it so thoroughly deserves. The Baltimore School is now sufficiently advanced to warrant the expectation that it will be open for the reception of boys before the close of the present year.

The working of the Industrial School system in Ireland is acknowledged to have been attended with remarkable success. In the largest measure this success is due to the lofty motives which actuated Managers in undertaking the control of the schools, and to the enlightened and liberal views which governed their arrangements for the industrial training of the children. The Industrial School system has also enjoyed the advantage of exceptional popularity with all classes. This popularity, however, has not proved an unmixed benefit. Those who have watched the progress of these institutions from year to year, have not failed to observe the ever-increasing tendency to procure the admission of a class of children for whose benefit Industrial Schools were not originally intended. If admissions were limited to the classes of children specified in the 11th and 13th sections of the Act of 1868, and in the Amendment Act of 1881, it is difficult to believe that at the date of this Report there should be practically no vacancies throughout the Irish Industrial Schools. The crowded condition of the schools, owing in a great measure to the facility of obtaining orders of detention, appears to deserve the attention of the Legislature.

It frequently happens in the history of legislation, that within a varying interval after the passing of an Act of Parliament a period arrives when it becomes desirable to review in the light of actual experience the practical fruits borne by legislative enactments. Such a period would appear to have been reached in respect of the Industrial School system in Ireland. In 1882 a Royal Commission was appointed to inquire into the Reformatory and Industrial Schools of the United Kingdom, and in 1883 the Commissioners presented their Report. In their reference to Ireland they point to the necessity for further legislation, and it is to be hoped that the views expressed by a Commission of such exceptional weight and authority may soon lead to changes in the existing law. Every day's experience gained in the practical working of the schools, impresses me more deeply with the value of the amendments suggested by the Commission, and I hope later on to be permitted to submit one or two additional points which I think might with advantage be dealt with whenever the recommendations of the Royal Commission appear likely to engage the attention of Parliament.

On the subject of the secular education of the children, I beg to add that so far as my experience enables me to express an opinion, I have every reason to believe this important branch of the training of the children receives due attention. In one half of the Industrial Schools (33 out of 66) the progress of the children is tested by the searching examinations of the Inspectors of the National Board of Education. The satisfactory answering of the children thus examined may be gathered in detail from a reference to the table given at p. 21. For this valuable return I am indebted to the courtesy of Mr. Molloy, the Chief of Inspection of the National Board.

The following tables present the usual statistical returns:—

REFORMATORY SCHOOLS.

The number of Reformatories in Ireland is the same as in previous year, viz., 5 for boys and 4 for girls, as under—

For Boys, Protestant, 2; Roman Catholic, 3.

No Reformatory School under Act 31 & 32 Vic., cap. 59, has been certified in Ireland since 1870.

The following table shows the number of young offenders in Irish Reformatories on the 31st December in each year, since the passing of the Reformatory Schools Act for Ireland in 1858 :—

—	Boys.	Girls.	Total.	—	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
1859,	84	46	130	1873,	833	206	1,039

1872,	838	211	1,049	1886,	791	145	936

The inmates of Reformatory Schools decreased by 33 in 1886, the number of boys being less by 23, and of girls by 10.

The inmates of Reformatory Schools in Ireland at the close of 1886, were less in number than that at any period during the last sixteen years.

The following presents the religious classification of the inmates under detention in Reformatory Schools on 31st December, 1886:—

—	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
Roman Catholic,	668	131	799
Protestant,	123	14	137
Total in Schools,	791	145	936

Total number under warrants of detention.

Besides the actual inmates of the schools on the 31st December 1886, there were then under orders of detention :—

—	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
On licence, at large,	75	1	76
In prison,	3	—	3
Abandoned,	14	—	14
Total under warrants of detention,	888	146	1,034
Retained in School (sentence expired) until provided with situations or otherwise disposed of,	—	—	—

The corresponding numbers in 1885 were:—

—	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
In schools	814	155	969
Total under warrants of detention, .	906	155	1,061

The ADMISSIONS to Reformatory Schools in 1886 were 203, viz., 175 of boys, and 28 of girls, showing an increase on 1885 of 29 admissions, boys and 10 girls; total increase in the number of admissions, 39.

As usual, about half the boys were committed from Dublin and Belfast.

AGES.

The ages of young offenders when admitted into Reformatories in 1886 and in 1885 were—

—	1886.			1885.
	Boys.	Girls.	Total.	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
10 years and under,	7	1	8	8	3	11
Between 10 and 12 years,	27	6	33	23	—	23

" 14 " 16 "	65	12	77	54	11	65
Total,	175	28	203	144	18	162

It is satisfactory to observe that the number of boys under 12 years of age committed to Reformatories have decreased during the last seven years, the numbers being:—

—	Males.	Females.	Total.
1880,	84	12	96
1881,	60	11	71
1882,	84	7	91
1883,	49	9	58
1884,	49	6	55
1885,	31	3	34
1886,	34	7	41

I am of opinion, that save in cases of exceptional depravity, it is not desirable children under 12 years of age should be sent to a Reformatory.

The RELIGIOUS CLASSIFICATION of young offenders admitted during 1886 shows:—Boys—Roman Catholic, 149; Protestant, 26; Girls—Roman Catholic, 27; Protestant, 1.

EDUCATIONAL STATUS.

Education. Eighty-five boys, or 48 per cent., and 12 girls, or 43 per cent. committed to Reformatory Schools in 1886 were totally uneducated. In 1885 the per-centage was 57 per cent. of boys and 44 of girls.

PARENTAL CIRCUMSTANCES.

The parental circumstances of young offenders committed in Ireland to Reformatories during 1886 were much the same as in previous years.

DISCHARGES.

Discharges in 1886. The DISCHARGES from Reformatory Schools in 1886 amounted to 239, viz., 200 boys, and 39 girls. The corresponding numbers for 1885 were—boys, 225; girls, 41; total, 266; showing a decrease of 27 in 1886.

The young offenders discharged were disposed of as follows:—

—	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
To employment or service,	81	11	92
Placed out through relatives,	59	23	82
Emigrated,	32	3	35
Sent to sea,	2	—	2

Discharged from disease,	2	1	3
Died,	4	1	5
Absconded and not recovered,	2	—	2
Total,	200	39	239

From the above it appears that 35 young offenders emigrated in 1886 on discharge from the Schools, the corresponding number in 1885 being 40. Two boys went to sea in 1886, and 3 in 1885. In 1885 10 boys enlisted, and 18 in 1886.

DEATHS IN REFORMATORIES.

Four boys and 1 girl died during 1886—3 from lung disease; 1 from mesenteric disease, and 1 disease not classified.

ADMISSIONS AND DISCHARGES.

The total ADMISSIONS to Reformatory Schools since the passing of the Act in 1858, up to 31st December, 1886 (excluding transfers from one school to another), amounted to 6,551, viz., 5,336 boys, and 1,215 girls. Total admissions since passing of Act.

The total DISCHARGES during the same period were 5,522, viz., 4,453 boys, and 1,069 girls. Discharges.

The modes of disposal of the foregoing juveniles discharged during the period which has elapsed since the passing of the Act as reported by the managers of the schools, were as follows:—

	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
To employment or service,	1,821	425	1,746
„ friends,	1,673	432	2,105
Emigrated,	766	149	915

Discharged in consequence of disease, .	39	20	59

Died,	130	27	157
Absconded and not recovered,	55	8	63
Total,	4,453	1,069	5,522

RESULTS PAST THREE YEARS, 1883-84-85.

The results of the discharges during the years 1883-84-85 were as follows:— Results of discharges during three years

The number discharged during the above three years was 805, viz.—671 boys; 134 girls.

Since their discharge 12 boys and 1 girl died; leaving 659 boys and 133 girls to be reported on.

Boys.

The reports by Managers in 1886 of the results from the training of boys discharged during the three previous years is more favourable than in 1885. The following are the figures given for both periods:— Boys.

Results of discharges in 1883-84-85.	Results of discharges in 1885-86-87.
558, or 84·7 per cent., doing well.	563, or 83·4 per cent., doing well.
7, or 1·0 „ doubtful.	7, or 1·0 „ doubtful.
59, or 8·9 „ re-convicted.	68, or 10·0 „ re-convicted.
35, or 5·3 „ lost sight of.	37, or 5·4 „ lost sight of.

GIRLS.

The results reported of the training of girls discharged from Reformatory Schools in Ireland during the same period is not so favourable.

Results of discharges in 1883-84-85.	Results of discharges in 1882-83-84.
105, or 78.9 per cent., doing well.	134, or 82.7 per cent., doing well.
9, or 6.7 " doubtful.	7, or 4.3 " doubtful.
7, or 5.2 " re-convicted.	11, or 6.7 " re-convicted.
12, or 9.0 " lost sight of.	10, or 6.1 " lost sight of.

RE-CONVICTIONS AFTER DETENTION IN A REFORMATORY.

The Reports of Governors of Prisons for 1886, show that the numbers of offenders sentenced to imprisonment in 1886, who had previously been inmates of a Reformatory at some period since the passing of the Act in 1858, were 169, viz.: 144 males, 25 females.

The numbers discharged since the passing of the Act were, males 4,453, females 1,069.

It is worthy of note that a large proportion of the above re-convictions were for drunkenness and assaults, whereas only a small per centage were re-convicted of larceny or more serious crimes.

Many of the commitments were for offences of a comparatively trifling nature, or of a character not indicating criminal tendency.

When considering the subject of relapses of young offenders, the large numbers which have passed through the institutions must be taken into account.

PRISON STATISTICS.

1886	22,853	13,644	36,497	687	164	801	2.14

* These totals represent commitments to larger district prisons only, and do not include commitments to short sentence prisons and smaller district prisons (bridewells).

The number of adults committed to prison in 1886 was greater by 8,712 or 31 per cent. than in 1872, whereas the juveniles decreased by 535, or 40 per cent.

As a further evidence of the past and present state of crime, I beg to quote the following figures from the Report of the Royal Commission on Reformatory and Industrial Schools, continued down to date.

The amount of voluntary subscriptions in 1886 was £627 18s. 2d., being £216 8s. 9d. more than in previous year. The industrial profits were £1,309 19s. 11d., being £203 13s. 5d. less than in 1885.

The average cost per head for maintenance, including rent, interest and disposal, but deducting industrial profit, was £22 8s. 10d. for boys, and £24 9s. 10d. for girls.

The highest cost per head for boys was £26 16s. 0d. (at Upton), the lowest £18 7s. 4d. (Malone).

The highest cost for girls was £24 8s. 5d. (Limerick), the lowest £20 12s. 10d. (Monaghan). The high cost per head at Limerick is due to the small number of juveniles under detention and to the large amount of interest paid on money borrowed.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS.

The number of certified Industrial Schools in Ireland on 31st December, 1885, was 64. Two new schools were certified during 1886 for Roman Catholic boys at Letterfrack, co. Galway, and one for Roman Catholic girls at Ballaghaderreen, co. Mayo. There were consequently 66 schools in Ireland certified under the Industrial Schools Act on the 31st December, 1886, viz:—

	Roman Catholic.	Protestant.
Boys, Do. (Probationary School for boys, under 13 years of age, committed for an offence punishable by imprisonment), . . .	13	5
Girls, . . .	1	—
Young boys and girls (at Killarney),* . . .	41	5
Total,	56	10

The NUMBER of children actually in the schools on the 31st December, 1886, was—boys, 2,826; girls, 4,273; total, 7,099; (being an increase of 162 boys and an increase of 282 girls on the previous year). Of these 23 boys and 215 girls (who were in excess of the limits fixed by the rules of each school), although sentenced by magistrates to detention in the schools, under the Industrial Schools Act, or else, being under six years of age, were not paid for out of the Treasury grant, and were supported by the managers from other sources, as voluntary inmates. The total number of inmates in Industrial Schools paid for out of the Treasury grant on 31st December, 1886, therefore amounted to 6,861, being an increase of 496 on previous year.

In addition to the above there were on 31st December, 1886—

	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
On licence,	284	354	638
Absconded and not recovered, . . .	11	1	12
Total under warrants of detention,	3,121	4,628	7,749
Retained in school after expiration of sentence,	8	53	61

The ADMISSIONS to Industrial Schools in 1886, deducting transfers and re-committals, were 1,525 (624 boys, 901 girls), being a decrease of 73 boys and an increase of 151 girls on the numbers for 1885.

* The School for girls, and that for young boys at Killarney, although under the same management, have each a separate certificate. The one certified in 1869, the other in 1872. The children of each sex reside in buildings sufficiently distant one from the other.

The AGES on admission were :—

—	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
Under 6 years,	6	52	58
From 6 to 8,	110	280	390
„ 8 to 10,	181	239	420
„ 10 to 12,	217	210	427
„ 12 to 14,	110	130	230
Total,	624	901	1,525

EDUCATIONAL STATUS.

The EDUCATIONAL STATUS of young persons admitted year after year into Industrial Schools in Ireland plainly evinces the deplorably illiterate condition of the class of children from which the inmates of these institutions are taken.

The following was the state of instruction of the children admitted into these schools during the year 1886, viz :—

—	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
Unable to read or write,	353	577	930
Could read and write imperfectly,	249	290	539
„ read and write well,	22	32	54
Superior Instruction,	—	2	2
Total,	624	901	1,525

The figures in the above table show that 61 per cent. of the children received into Irish Industrial Schools in 1886 were, when admitted, quite illiterate. The returns of previous years are likewise evidence that the normal educational status of children sent to these institutions yearly deteriorates. Fifty-five per cent. of the children sent thereto in 1882 were quite illiterate. In 1883 the percentage of those who could neither read nor write, when admitted, was 60, and in 1884 it was 61 per cent. In 1885, 59 per cent.

The FAMILY CIRCUMSTANCES of the children admitted to Industrial Schools in 1886 were much the same as in previous years. The reports received daily from the Constabulary afford evidence of the great poverty of the class from which the children of these schools come.

DISCHARGES.

Discharges
in 1886.

The DISCHARGES from Industrial Schools in 1886 were—of boys 430, of girls, 582, total 1,012, showing a decrease of 3 in the number of discharges of boys, and a decrease of 12 in that of girls, as compared with the previous year 1885.

The modes of disposal of the children discharged were as follows:—

The TOTAL ADMISSIONS to certified Industrial Schools (excluding transfers) amounted, up to December 31st, 1886, to:—Boys, 7,971; girls, 11,866; total, 19,837.

The TOTAL DISCHARGES to same date (excluding transfers) amounted to:—Boys, 4,842; girls, 7,185; total, 12,027.

The managers report that these children have been disposed of as follows:—

Total admissions and discharges since the passing of the Act. Modes of disposal of discharges from Industrial schools since passing of Act.

12,027 children have been discharged from Industrial Schools in Ireland during the fifteen years which have elapsed since the passing of the Industrial Schools Act for Ireland. Of these 289 boys went to sea, 82 enlisted, and 209 boys and 650 girls are stated to have emigrated on discharge from the schools.

Results.

The RESULTS of the working of Industrial Schools, as tested by the numbers reported on, are as follows:—

Total number who left the schools during the three years 1883-84-85 was 3,449, viz., boys, 1,700; girls, 1,749.

Two circulars which have been addressed to Managers are included in the appendix.

In concluding my Report for the year 1886 it affords me sincere pleasure to express my grateful acknowledgment of the cordial assistance I have received from Managers during the period I have been connected with the schools. I have also to express my warm sense of the efficient manner in which the duties of the department have been discharged by the staff employed in the Reformatory and Industrial Schools Office.

I have the honour to remain, Sir,
Your very faithful servant,

APPENDIX II.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

The Inspector of Reformatory and Industrial Schools requests the attention of Managers to the importance of having a careful examination made of the arms of all children admitted to their schools in order to ascertain whether they have been vaccinated in infancy. The Inspector has observed that a large proportion of the children in Industrial Schools present no traces of primary vaccination, and are unprotected against the danger of contracting small-pox.

The proper course for Managers to adopt would be to request the medical attendant to examine the vaccination marks of the children. The medical attendant would then exercise his judgment as to the measures to be taken in each case; in many instances primary vaccination will be found necessary, in others re-vaccination may be considered desirable. It may be well to mention, for the information of Managers, that under the Compulsory Vaccination and Public Health Acts, the person having the care or custody of a child is held responsible for its protection against small-pox by securing its vaccination, and that such obligation can be enforced against the custodian of the child until it attains the age of 14 years. It is to be hoped that in the interests of the children and of all concerned in the management of Industrial Schools, the practice may be adopted of submitting all admissions to the medical attendant, who would do well to record in the "Medical Report Book" the names of the children examined and the result of such examination.

With regard to other infectious diseases which children are so liable to contract, the Inspector advises Managers to make arrangements for setting apart a small day-room and dormitory for the reception of recent admissions and their retention in these "Observation Wards" for a period of two weeks after admission. Many children are committed to Industrial Schools from the crowded tenement dwellings in large towns. Some of these children may have recently suffered from infectious or contagious diseases, or may have been in contact with affected persons to such an extent as to become carriers of infection. It is desirable that children of whose antecedents very little is known should, whenever it is possible, be retained in Observation Wards for the first fortnight after their admission to Industrial Schools. After a fortnight's probation they may with safety be passed into the body of the school. The necessity for some arrangement of the kind recommended has been strongly impressed upon the attention of the Inspector by the recent deplorable circumstance of a young child admitted to a country Industrial School having communicated typhus fever to two Sisters of Mercy who died from the disease thus accidentally introduced.

Office of Inspector of Reformatory and Industrial Schools,
Dublin Castle, 10th September, 1886.

APPENDIX III.

Circular.

The Inspector requests the attention of Managers to certain irregularities of rather frequent occurrence in connection with recommitments to, and discharges from Industrial Schools.

I. On the subject of recommitments, the Inspector has to request that in every case in which a child is recommitted to a school, the fact of such recommitment, with a full statement of the circumstances, may be transmitted to this Office. In several cases of recent recommitment the Inspector has observed with surprise and regret that Managers have made themselves parties to an arrangement under which children recently discharged, or about to be discharged, on the termination of their period of detention, have been sent out to wander or beg, with the object of making a case for their recommitment by the magistrates. Such a proceeding is illegal and cannot fail to exercise a demoralizing influence upon the children themselves. An erroneous impression appears to prevail amongst Managers that if, on the expiration of the term of detention, a child is under the age of 14 years they are at liberty to procure a recommitment so as to retain the custody of the child until the age of 16 years. It has sometimes been alleged in extenuation of the irregular proceedings adopted to procure such recommitments that the sentence originally imposed by the magistrates was not of sufficient duration to complete the training of the children. The power of deciding upon the period of detention proper for each case is vested in the adjudicating magistrates; and if, in individual cases, the sentence appears to Managers to be too short to enable them to train the child they can decline to receive it; but no considerations of expediency founded upon the supposed interests of the child can justify a Manager in procuring its recommitment by methods which are obviously improper and calculated to endanger the certificate of the school.

II. With reference to discharges, it appears to be necessary to remind Managers that under Sections 32 and 33 of the Industrial Schools (Ireland) Act, the Chief Secretary has power to order the transfer of a child from one certified Industrial School to another, and to order either absolutely or on prescribed conditions, the discharge of a child from any certified Industrial School. Managers have no power to transfer or discharge children except under the authority for licensing them out or apprenticing them conferred on them by the 21st and 22nd Sections of the Act. Cases have occurred in which Managers have removed children from certified premises without the authority of the Chief Secretary; and in a few instances, Managers, under circumstances which they have considered urgent have taken upon themselves the responsibility of discharging children absolutely. It is requested that Managers will bear in mind that the exercise of the power of transfer or discharge is illegal on their part.

The Inspector desires to add that when Managers, who should act under medical certificate, send children temporarily to extern Hospitals for treatment in cases of severe or infectious illness—whenever such temporary absence is deemed necessary for the proper treatment of the sufferers and the protection of the rest of the children—the names of the children must be recorded as heretofore on the face of the Monthly Return B with date.
